Job Description

As a Medical and Biomedical Sciences Liaison Librarian, you will provide research and teaching support to faculty, staff, students, and researchers in the Jacobs School of Medicine and Biomedical Sciences. You will join the current Jacobs School liaison in building strategic partnerships within the school through collaboration with faculty and researchers while also providing support to a wide audience of undergraduate, graduate, residency, and fellowship programs. You will be an important part of the Health Sciences Library Services team, which serves users in the five Health Sciences Schools.

As a Medical and Biomedical Sciences Liaison Librarian, your primary duties will include:

- Providing research support to and fostering relationships with faculty, staff, students, and researchers in the Jacobs School of Medicine and Biomedical Sciences.

- Designing and teaching curriculum-integrated instruction sessions in a variety of formats to meet the needs of diverse user groups.
- Providing expert search services for systematic reviews and other research projects.
- Serving as a member of the HSLs team and contributing to the research literacy efforts of students, faculty, staff, and key partners of the health sciences schools and their affiliates.
- Collaborating with fellow team members to develop new services and programs in emerging areas of health sciences education and research.
- Communicating current issues and trends in scholarly communication, open access publishing, and data management to faculty and staff in relevant disciplines.
- Developing engagement activities and communication to promote library resources and services to the university community.
- Demonstrating commitment to continued professional growth and active participation in professional activities and service.

Based upon qualifications, experience, the University's standards for continuing appointment, and Libraries' standards in librarianship, service, and scholarship, we anticipate appointing you at the rank of Senior Assistant Librarian. You will report to the Head of Health Sciences Library Services and work with librarians and staff across the University Libraries.

The University Libraries is a welcoming multicultural environment that serves an increasingly diverse constituency of patrons. Our employees, services, collections, and policies honor and reflect this diversity and we invite individuals to apply whose perspectives and experiences will enrich and strengthen our organization.
