Job Description

Position Summary

The University at Buffalo (UB) Cora P. Maloney Center (CPMC) – Access to College Excellence Program is in search of a dynamic, energetic, and highly professional to serve as a Student Success Specialist. This role is dedicated to providing a wide array of support services that are specifically designed to enhance student retention and persistence for first- and second-year students. You will manage a caseload of first-year students, coordinate student success and retention workshops, monitor and track student progress and performance, and collaborate with campus constituents to support students. Additionally, you will design, develop, and teach a one-credit first-year seminar course to help students transition from high school to college. The position reports to the Senior Associate Director for Cora P. Maloney Center and Coordinator for ACE, part of a collaborative team dedicated to student success.

Key Duties & Responsibilities

- Coordinate workshops for enrolled students that focus on student success and retention.
- Design and implement a system for tracking workshop attendance.
- Teach one section of CPM 101 per year of the one credit hour course for new ACE students. The course will highlight activities and events to help students transition from high school to college and impact retention and persistence.
- Follow up on academic alerts from faculty members.
- Review mid-semester grading and probation reports, to follow up with students about their academic progress.
- Manage a caseload of students and be knowledgeable on university programs and policies that can impact academic success.
- Track student acceptance into departments.

Cora P. Maloney Center (CPMC) is integral to UB's mission of access, diversity, and success. CPMC's mission and vision is to assist with promoting academic excellence, while providing a strong foundation for equity. Cora P. Maloney Center has a strong history of effectively supporting historically underrepresented students and provides a pipeline that connects the pre-college programs (Liberty Partnerships Program (LPP), Science Technology and Entry Program (STEP) and Upward Bound) to the college level programs (Access to College Excellence (ACE), Daniel Acker Scholars, Collegiate Science and Technology Entry Program (CSTEP), McNair Scholars, and Student Support Services (SSS) in CPMC, by offering joint programming and mentorship. CPMC provides a dynamic network of programs, services and opportunities that promote access and academic excellence, to ensure talented UB students persist and actualize their academic and professional potential.
