medical and mental health care and prevention services. We are active and visible throughout campus conducting training, outreach and liaison work, and serving as active members of Student Life.

This area has responsibility for health compliance, state and federal health requirements, health insurance, HIPAA and other privacy concerns, and risk management. Our combined staff is approximately 60 individuals with diverse medical, mental health and public health backgrounds.

What You'll Do

Reporting to the Executive Director Health & Wellness, the Director of Health Promotion (DHP) will lead the strategy for an implementation of comprehensive health promotion initiatives for Arts, Sciences & Engineering graduate and undergraduate students on the Medford/Somerville and Fenway campuses at Tufts University. The DHP is a collaboration-oriented colleague who is committed to socio-ecological and harm reduction approaches to student health and well-being. The DHP provides expertise in public health and health promotion as a member of Health and Wellness within Tufts Student Life.

Responsibilities include:

- Sets the vision and strategy for health promotion goals and initiatives in partnership with Executive Director of Health and Wellness, AOD and Mental Health Promotion Specialists, Dean of Students Office, and campus colleagues
- Oversees the planning, implementation, and evaluation of evidence-informed health promotion strategies, policies, programs, and services based on campus needs and priorities
- Engages in coalition building with key stakeholders on and off campus to develop a multidisciplinary approach to health and well-being for students
- Practices cultural responsiveness and incorporate social justice concepts and principles into health promotion
- Supervises professional staff and graduate and undergraduate student workers, including evaluating staff and student performance and setting professional and personal goals with staff and students
- Develops, implements, and advocates for campus policies that advance and promote health and well-being and reduce health inequities
- Directs the development and implementation of campus-wide assessments to determine health needs, assets, and priorities
- Serves as a member of the Health and Wellness leadership team
- Manages the operating budgets under Health Promotion
- Collaborates with other colleagues in the Division of Student Life on policies, programs, and initiatives that cross multiple departments
- Provides health information through presentations, workshops, online modules, and other interactive formats for students
- Guides health literacy and social marketing strategies to promote well-being and engagement in health promotion programs and services in conjunction with Student Life Communication Team
