Position Summary

The Deputy Chief of Police Event Operation and Medical Campus is a command-level position, primarily responsible for the coordination of police and security services for designated special events and at the University at Buffalo Medical Campus.

This position is responsible for:

- Establishing and maintaining effective public safety practices through the application of community policing strategies, and by facilitating the cooperative efforts of students, faculty, staff, and external Medical Campus partners.
- Oversees and is responsible for the fair and impartial enforcement of federal, state, and local laws, University rules and regulations.
- Responsible for University Police services at the Medical Campus, and the maintenance of an effective, well disciplined, and professional law enforcement force within the constraints of a complex Civil Service structure and requirements of a negotiated union contract.
- Oversees services provided by outside security contractors to ensure University service expectations are being met.
- Coordinates with Buffalo Niagara Medical Campus (BNMC) partners to maintain positive and effective working relationships and to develop opportunities for shared services where mutually beneficial.

This position often requires working various shifts to provide active shift supervision of patrol personnel and event operations as needed. The Deputy Chief of Event Operations & Medical Campus reports directly to the Chief of Police, and may assume the responsibilities of the Chief in his absence when designated.
