The University of California, Berkeley, is one of the world's leading institutions of higher education, distinguished by its combination of internationally recognized academic and research excellence; the transformative opportunity it provides to a large and diverse student body; its public mission and commitment to equity and social justice; and its roots in the California experience, animated by such values as innovation, questioning the status quo, and respect for the environment and nature. Since its founding in 1868, Berkeley has fueled a perpetual renaissance, generating unparalleled intellectual, economic and social value in California, the United States and the world.

We are looking for equity-minded applicants who represent the full diversity of California and who demonstrate a sensitivity to and understanding of the diverse academic, socioeconomic, cultural, disability, gender identity, sexual orientation, and ethnic backgrounds present in our community. When you join the team at Berkeley, you can expect to be part of an inclusive, innovative and equity-focused community that approaches higher education as a matter of social justice that requires broad collaboration among faculty, staff, students and community partners. In deciding whether to apply for a position at Berkeley, you are strongly encouraged to consider whether your values align with our Guiding Values and Principles, our Principles of Community, and our Strategic Plan.

At UC Berkeley, we believe that learning is a fundamental part of working, and our goal is for everyone on the Berkeley campus to feel supported and equipped to realize their full potential. We actively support this by providing all of our staff employees with at least 80 hours (10 days) of paid time per year to engage in professional development activities. To find out more about how you can grow your career at UC Berkeley, visit grow.berkeley.edu.

Departmental Overview

UC Berkeley's Haas School of Business offers a unique opportunity to champion new ideas, collaborate across boundaries, and continually learn in a workplace committed to increasing diversity and creating a welcoming environment for all. Our distinctive culture is captured within our four Defining Leadership Principles: Question the Status Quo, Confidence Without Attitude, Students Always, and Beyond Yourself. These principles distinguish Berkeley Haas as a unique environment, conducive to teamwork, collaboration, and career growth.

incubator. Despite the plethora of other offerings on campus, there is no physical space where students and researchers can connect with each other and mentors, build their startups, and be discovered by investors easily. The Hub's goal is to provide this infrastructure and associated programming, and thereby make entrepreneurship easier and more accessible for all. In the process, the Hub will also raise the visibility and impact of Haas in the innovation and entrepreneurship ecosystem on campus and beyond.

The Haas School of Business embraces flexible working arrangements for its employees. Exact arrangements are determined in partnership with your supervisor to meet role responsibilities and department needs and are subject to change. This role is expected to be primarily on site, given the responsibilities of engaging with students and researchers pursuing their entrepreneurial ventures, and supporting the implementation of the programming in the space.

Overview of the Position

A core value proposition of the Hub will be to provide "entrepre-curious" students and researchers from across campus a person they can easily access, who can guide them on how to pursue their venture ideas and navigate the vast array of innovation and entrepreneurship (I&E) resources on campus. To fulfill this critical role, we are seeking a dynamic, entrepreneurial, and hands-on Campus Startup Navigator (Navigator), who will work closely with the Executive Director and directly report to the Faculty Director of the Hub. The type of candidate who will thrive in this role is someone who is knowledgeable about the extensive portfolio of I&E resources at UC Berkeley, can effectively build relationships with those units to make referrals, can develop connections with related broader university and Bay area contacts as needed, is able to work independently and with ambiguity, and can quickly turn insights into action. Given the startup-like nature of the Hub itself, we are seeking a person who can adapt with the needs, is a "utility" player who can be serving the students in an advisor capacity one day while helping implement a multi-session event the next day, and simultaneously ensure that the latest order of coffee pods and granola bars have been unpacked in the kitchen! It's a role for someone who enjoys rolling up their sleeves, being scrappy, and doing whatever it takes to optimize the I&E student experience and outcomes. In doing so, the Navigator will be able to have a direct impact on students who came to campus with nothing more than a passion/idea, along with researchers working on cutting-edge technology in the labs.
